

Introducing author Norm Cowie's humor/fantasy novels

The Adventures of Guy ... written by a guy (probably)
The Next Adventures of Guy ... more wackiness

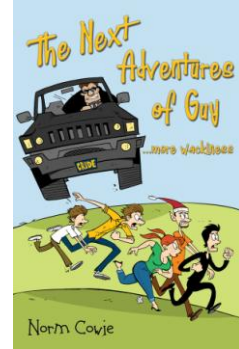

(winner Preditors and Editors Readers Choice Award)

ISBN# 1-933157-08-9

ISBN# 978-1-59080-596-1

ISBN# 978-1-933157-19-1

Here's what they have been saying:

"... humorous fantasy at its best..." Armchair Interviews (Amazon Top reviewer)

"...LOL funny" Beverly at Publisher's Weekly

"... profound, funny and persistently entertaining read from first page to last." Midwest Book Review.

"No topic is safe from Cowie's incredible wit and entertaining turn-of-phrase." Pop Syndicate

"...hilarious mishaps...." Joliet Herald News

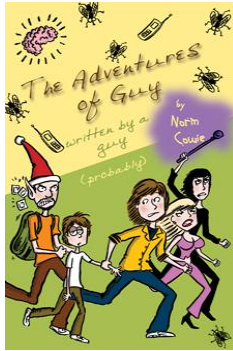

"Hilarious, witty and oozing with snappy sarcasm..." RJ at 3Rs Bits, Bites & Books

"Don't bother picking up this one if you've no sense of humor"
Amanda Richards, Amazon Top Reviewer

"Everything in the book is so true, you can't help but laugh in agreement."
Roundtable Reviews

"This book is funny."
Award-winning author Barbara D'Amato.

Information Sheet

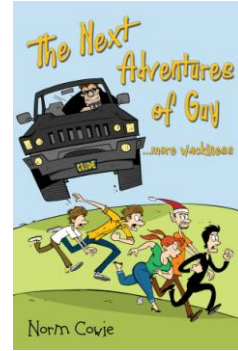

ISBN: 1-933157-08-9

Retail $16.95

E-book $6.50

264 pages

ISBN: 978-1-933157-19-1

Retail $17.95

E-book $6.50

288 pages

The Adventures of Guy ... written by a guy (probably)

Somebody took off with Seth's brain ... not that he was using it anyway ... and his big brother Guy isn't going to take it lying down, even though his brother is a pain in the butt who always takes the last cookie. So Guy and his roommates Knob and Thurman join up with a beautiful and curvaceous warrior to take on sinister and evil forces, including attorneys, telemarketers and people who throw cigarette butts out of their car window.

They encounter all kinds of other horrible creatures including the 'plumber's butt' monster and a big cloud that keeps falling from the sky destroying cars, houses and Knob's favorite tennis racquet. But they pick up strange and wonderful powers, allies and French fries along the way.

Will they get Seth's brain back? And if so, would anyone notice? There's only one way to find out.

...and ...

The Next Adventures of Guy ... more wackiness

Every 'Quest' has to have a sorcerer, an elf, a warrior, special effects ... and most of all, a sequel. So in the hilarious sequel to The Adventures of Guy, Guy and his college buddies Knob and Thurman take on a new quest ... to save Earth from alien invasion.

To do this, they must take on Big Oil and other sinister forces using only their wits, their newfound powers and their knowledge of beer, all while overcoming their own leader's lack of faith in their abilities.

But can our heroes do this without their mighty warrior? And with the impending invasion? And with Guy's kid-brother tagging along? Come along with us on The Next Adventures of Guy and find out for yourself.

Draumr Publishing LLC

Robert Allen, Editor

P.O. Box 428, Columbia Md 21045

Ph 410-290-6757

Email robert@draumrpublishing.com

Trade paperback and e-book

Available through Ingram and Baker & Taylor ... or directly through publisher

Publicity contact: author or publisher

Please contact Editor (see above) for discount information

Perpetuator of all of this nonsense: author Norm Cowie

Daytime: (708) 489-4870

n.cowie@comcast.net or ncowie@evergreenoak.com

www.normcowie.com

Bio:

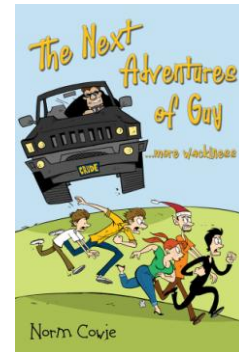

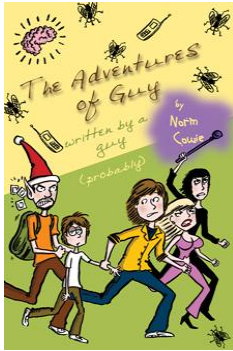

Norm Cowie has two published fantasy/humor books, The Adventures of Guy ... written by a guy (probably) and the Predators & Editor's Reader's Choice winner for best Sci-Fi Fantasy, The Next Adventures of Guy ... more wackiness. In addition, his short stories appear in the Echelon Press Publishing anthologies Heat of the Moment and Missing.

In the real world Norm is vice president of an electrical supply company, a business lecturer and award-winning business humor columnist, where he gets in trouble for calling attorneys names like "poo poo head" and 'weasels' and stuff like that. So far they haven't sued him (though his publisher probably wouldn't mind the publicity). He has also written humor articles that have appeared in the Chicago Tribune and Cynic Magazine. They haven't sued him either.

In the real world, he's married, with two critters ... er ... daughters (weird beings who pretend to be women) and a bunch of critters that he's allergic to.

His first Young Adult humor/vampire book, Fang Face will be published in August 2009.

Visit Norm on his website www.normcowie.com

Thanks for your interest. If you've read this far, either you're really hurting for something to read .. may I suggest my books? ... or you're a dedicated reviewer or print media.

If you're one of the latter, I love reviewers and media, because they bring a wonderful thing to the whole kibbles and bits, er, kit and caboodle. That thing is 'publicity.'

And I love publicity! And my publisher loves that I love publicity.

So if you're a bona fide reviewer or member of the media, review copies are available to you. Please email me at n.cowie@comcast.net or ncowie@evergreenoak.com with where to send review copies. The second address is my work email, and because our MIS department set our spam filter to 'kill' rather than 'stun,' you might be better off just shooting it to the Comcast address. But I'm at my day-job all day most days, so if you're feeling lucky, feel free to try to get through the filters.

Or just send a request to my publisher at robert@draumrpublishing.com

Let me know which book you'd like to see.

Graci, danke, gracias, Honolulu, etc.

Norm

(if you're not a real reviewer or media, sorry, but you gotta buy them)